

BUILD & BROADEN

FACULTY LEARNING COMMUNITY

Struggling to get your research funded? Tired of writing alone?
Looking for constructive feedback? Frustrated with lack of protected time and resources to be a scholar?

We are building a community of early career scholars and pairing them with esteemed faculty mentors. The Build & Broaden Faculty Learning Community will EMPOWER and AFFIRM research focusing on family processes and intimate relationship formation among underrepresented groups (broadly defined).

- Are you an early career scholar (pre-tenure faculty member, postdoctoral fellow)?
- Would you like to learn how to write successful grant proposals?
- Would you like to be matched with an experienced and collaborative faculty mentor?
- Are you interested in family processes and contextual factors undergirding those processes?
- Do you take a developmental approach when conducting research?
- Are you interested in family/couple development or change over time?

If your answers are all YES, we welcome you to learn more about how a Faculty Learning Community can help support your career goals and invite you to consider submitting an application.

Click here to review the Build and Broaden Faculty Learning Community website for more information and apply.

Application Deadline for Early Consideration: April 1, 2024 by midnight Central Time
No applications received after May 1, 2024 (midnight Central Time) will be considered.